FELIX DIAZ IS STABBED BY MEXICAN

Candidate of the National Democratic Party in Mexico Election Injured Twice on Street in Havana.

ALLEGED HE KNEW OF PLOT TO MURDER HIM

No Developments, Good, Bad or Indifferent During the Day, According to Word From the White House.

HAVANA, Nov. 7.—Gen. Felix Diaz was stabbed by a Mexican at 10:20 o'clock Thursday night. He was wounded twice probably not fatally. The attack on Diaz occurred while he was walking on the Malecon, a fashionable promenade. He was wounded behind the ear and in the neck, besides receiving several blows on the head from a cane.

Diaz was removed to a hospital. His assailant was arrested. Gen. Felix Diaz made his escape from Mexico on Oct. 28, taking refuge on board the United States gunboat Wheeling at Vera Cruz. He was transferred to the Louisiana and from there to the battleship Michigan, later being put aboard the steamer Esperanza, which reached Havana on Monday last.

As long ago as Oct. 15, the Cuban government was warned that a band of Mexican conspirators were planning to kill Gen. Diaz, who was then on his way from Europe to Mexico. The Cuban government took precautionary measures and Diaz was closely guarded when he landed at Havana on his homeward voyage. There were rumors of other plots against his life when it was learned that he was to return to Havana.

A late Vera Cruz dispatch reported that Diaz had left behind him there alleged proof that an agent of the government was on his way to Vera Cruz with orders to take Diaz to Mexico City, dead or alive. Gen. Diaz was the candidate of the national democratic party for the presidency. He had been sent out of the country by Huerta as the head of a special Mexican mission to Japan, but returned for the purpose of carrying on his campaign. When he arrived at Vera Cruz on Oct. 22 he found the situation so threatening that he did not dare to continue on to the Mexican capital. Gen. Huerta sent him an invitation to come to Mexico City and even dispatched an envoy to endeavor to induce Diaz to accept the invitation.

He declined to do so, and finally made his way to the American consulate from which he escaped to a launch which carried him to the Wheeling.

Gen. Felix Diaz is a nephew of Gen. Porfirio Diaz, the former president of the republic. A year ago he headed a revolutionary movement at Vera Cruz, which was promptly suppressed. He headed the revolt against President Madero in Mexico City last February, which ended in the overthrow of Madero and the assumption of the presidency by Huerta.

NOTHING DOING. WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—No developments, good, bad or indifferent—this was the word that came from the white house late Thursday as to the status of the Mexican situation following the presentation to provisional President Huerta of the wish of the United States that he resign.

Those who had any doubt about the press dispatches from Mexico City describing the last representations made to Huerta had the situation clarified for them to an extent today by administration officials. From the white house it became known that the views of the United States upon the recent election in Mexico were not forthrightly given to Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the charge d'affaires of the American embassy at Mexico City. This cablegram contained certain "instructions." Just what the instructions were was not divulged by the officials, who said they were of a confidential nature. It was recalled that when the negotiations began with the Huerta government, there was no formal note but "instructions to John Lind."

HEAVY DRAFTING. MEXICO CITY, Nov. 7.—Unusual activity in recruiting has been displayed recently. So great has become the fear of conscription that Mexicans whose work forces them to carry out after dark have begun to carry credentials, showing that they have steady employment. Much drafting has occurred among the humbler classes. More than 2,500 are reported to have been added to the army by conscription since the beginning of the week. It is said that not even women are exempt, many having been forced to become "soldaderas," those who accompany the Mexican army to look after the men generally.

CUT OFF FINGERS. EAGLE PASS, Texas, Nov. 7.—R. Weinger, assistant superintendent of the Penoles Mining company at Mapimi, state of Durango, Mex., was robbed and then killed at the direction of a constitutionalist leader and, after the murder, his fingers were cut off so the rebel commander might obtain valuable rings, the American wore. The information was brought to Eagle Pass Thursday night by Ernest Miller, an official of the mining company, who with other refugees reached the border after an overland journey of 18 days. The refugees who arrived Thursday night were escorted to the boundary by a relief expedition sent to Mapimi two months ago. They were the last of the American residents to quit the mining settlement.

TAKEN TO CAPITAL. WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Manuel Madero, uncle of the late president of Mexico, and several relatives who were recently arrested at Saltillo and placed on a Mexican gunboat supposed to be bound for Vera Cruz, have been taken to Mexico City. Consul Canada, who, under instructions from the state department, has been watching for the party's arrival at Vera Cruz with the purpose of seeing that they were fairly treated, has reported that in some way they were taken to the interior without passage through Vera Cruz. Charge O'Shaughnessy, who has already made representations to the provisional government in the interest of the prisoners, will continue to watch developments in the case. All of the Americans and other foreigners who took refuge in the American consulate at Monterrey during the recent unsuccessful rebel siege of the town have now returned to their homes. Order has been restored in the city, and while no railroads are operating, persons desiring to leave have been permitted by Gen. Telles to depart overland.

MONEY SEIZED. VERA CRUZ, Nov. 7.—One hundred and eighty boxes of silver pesos, each valued at about $3,000 forwarded here by Hugo Scherer and company, bankers of Mexico City, for shipment on the steamer Mexico, were seized by government officials Thursday. It is asserted by the authorities that under the law prohibiting such exportation, the money is liable to confiscation.

The same steamer has on board more than half a million in gold and silver bars, shipped by banks of Mexico City.

The exportation of the pesos it was later announced, was authorized by special permit issued by Gen. Huerta. The consent was left behind by the steamer Mexico, owing to excess freight.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 6.—Gen. Victoriano Huerta told his cabinet Thursday that he had decided to remain in the national palace in spite of any threats or threatening demonstration by the U. S. Gen. Huerta has not yet formally rejected Pres. Wilson's demands nor had he communicated with O'Shaughnessy, American charge d'affaires, on the subject up to noon Thursday.

According to the official organs of the military faction, which now controls the central government, the overthrow of Huerta would result in a popular uprising, but if Huerta should weaken and abdicate the situation would be more difficult of solution than it is at present. The hostility with which Mexicans view such a possibility.

Wrote His Resignation. There was an unconfirmed report current that Huerta, believing that patriotism could best be served by compliance with the wishes of Pres. Wilson, wrote his resignation three days ago but did not sign it. Events have since developed, however, which have led him to such an extent that he tore up the resignation and intimated to his advisers that, being a man trained in arms, he would prepare to take the field at the head of his army. The explanation was that the strength of the constitutionalist insurgents in the north had grown to such extent that Huerta believed that only his military genius could prevail against them.

Sec. Bryan's carefully worded denial that an ultimatum had been presented to Mexico, it is believed, stiffened Huerta in his determination to hang on, as his resignation at this time would hurt Mexican prestige.

WILL DISCUSS VOCATIONAL WORK

Supt. Montgomery to Address Convention of City School Heads at Indianapolis This Afternoon.

Supt. L. J. Montgomery of the city schools, left Friday morning with Charles Greathouse, state superintendent of public instruction, for Indianapolis, to attend the annual convention of city superintendents of Indiana.

Mr. Montgomery will take part in the program Friday afternoon with a paper on "What Shall Constitute a State Aided Vocational School or Department?" Prof. Z. M. Smith of Purdue university, also was to discuss the same subject. Supt. Greathouse was in the city to attend the dedicatory exercises at the high school Thursday evening.

Friday morning the program included addresses by Supt. T. F. Fitzgibbon of Columbus, on the "Aim and Scope of Vocational Work in the Regular Schools"; "Difficulties Encountered in the Organization and Prosecution of the Vocational Work in the Regular Schools and How These May Best Be Met," by Dr. W. F. Book, state supervisor of vocational education; "The Vocational Survey as a First Step in the Organization of a Special Vocational Department or School," by Superintendent L. H. Smith of Bloomington.

There will be addresses by Prof. Charles A. Bennett, on "Vocational Training: A Discussion of Some of the Practical Problems It Presents," and "Standardization of High School Work," by A. O. Neal, state high school inspector. In the evening there will be a lecture by Dr. W. L. Bryan, president of Indiana university, on "The Trap."

The meeting will close Saturday morning with addresses by Supt. L. N. Hines, of Crawfordsville, John A. Lapp, of Indianapolis, and Supt. J. H. Tomlin, of Evansville, on different phases of a Vocational Department or School. Robert L. Kealey, president of Earlham college, will deliver an address on "The Bible as Outside High School Work."

INSPECTION OF HIGH SCHOOL TO BE MADE TODAY

Figured That a Two Mile Walk Will be Required if Visitors Are Shown the Various Departments and Rooms.

SEVERAL ADDRESSES GIVEN LAST NIGHT

Dr. George F. James Says City is to be Commended on Its Step Towards Teaching of Vocational Training.

South Bend paid a visit to her high school last night but the visitors contented themselves with listening to the addresses of the different persons who told of the various advantages that have been incorporated in the building which is admitted to be one of the most up to date of its kind in the country.

The inspection of the structure was postponed until this afternoon and evening. It was proposed to have the inspection last night but as some of the statisticians at the high school figured that it would mean practically a two mile walk to see all the different departments and take a look at all the rooms, this was postponed until today when there will be more time.

Dr. George F. James of the University of Minnesota and State Supt. Charles Greathouse of Indianapolis were the principal speakers. Architect William B. Turner of St. Louis, who drew up plans for the structure was present and told of the various arrangements incorporated in the building and of what benefit they would be to the pupils.

Tells of Interest. Dr. James dwelt principally on the interest taken in education by the people of today. In former years they laid down certain rules of procedure and these were mandatory. As a result many graduates were unfitted to pursue their life's work, in an advantageous manner. He said that people were awaking to the fact that training in a man's life work was one of the essentials of his education, and that unless he had that he was unprepared to hold his position, or to be called educated.

He also told of seeing mammoth buildings for the different sciences and arts, some of them large enough to hold 8,000 people or allow four regiments to drill in them unencumbered. But the best was that despite this outlay, education was not being neglected and that a large school building was being erected next to them, showing that education was one of the necessary adjuncts to the life of any man, especially education in the branch that would be beneficial to him in his life's work.

He expressed pleasure on seeing that South Bend was one of the leaders in the matter of vocational training, and that it augured well for the future of the city, that the younger generation were being trained to do their duty in an efficient and capable manner.

Banquet is Held. Following the addresses a banquet was served in the domestic science department under the direction of Miss Hillier, the head of the department. The guests included the members of the board of education, J. E. Neff, George Knoblock and Arthur L. Hubbard, Supt. L. J. Montgomery, Principal Sims and Judge T. E. Howard were guests.

The exercises at the building were opened by the Matthe's orchestra. The invocation was offered by Rev. John Cavanaugh, C. S. C., of Notre Dame. Selections by the girls' glee club and the boys' double quartet completed the program.

A reception will be held at the building this afternoon and evening and the public is invited to inspect the building from the first to the top floor. The alumni will have charge of the reception and the officers are anxious to get the names and addresses of all who graduated from the South Bend high school.

LONE BANDIT GETS $500 AND AWAY

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 7.—All trace of the masked lone bandit who robbed the Pullman passengers of the Burlington railroad's fast mail train near here at midnight, was lost Friday and the victims of the raid on the train were poorer by $500 in cash and six gold watches.

The robber boarded the train at Council Bluffs, Iowa, and began operations soon after the train was under way. He backed all the passengers into one end of the car and robbed the men one at a time. Holding a revolver against the back of the first victim, the bandit addressed the other passengers.

"If any of you make a move," he said, "I'll kill this man and then I'll kill every other one of you before they catch me."

As the train approached the Omaha depot, the bandit pulled the bell cord and the engineer brought the train to a stop. The man jumped off and disappeared in the railroad yards.

SHOULD SOLDIERS BE CALLED TO RULE A CITY IN A CASE LIKE THIS IN INDIANAPOLIS?

STREET CARS STRANDED BY CUT TROLLEY WIRES IN INDIANAPOLIS, DOWNTOWN SECTION.

Frank L. Todd, head of the Indianapolis street railways, refused to arbitrate when his employees demanded $2.38 for a nine-hour day. They have been getting from 20 to 25 cents an hour.

The result is that militiamen rule the 250,000 citizens of Indianapolis. When the men first made their demand the mayor asked that both sides arbitrate. Todd turned down the city government. Then the governor tried to bring about arbitration. Todd turned down the state government. Ethelbert Stewart, from Washington, representing the department of commerce and labor, tried to bring about arbitration. Todd turned down the national government. He imported 250 strikebreakers, paying them $4.00 a day each.

Riots started. Citizens were killed. Every car that was started out caused a riot. Efforts were made to get Frank Todd to arbitrate, but he declined, and the next step was to put the city under martial law. Two thousand militiamen are now on the scene.

WILL BE FREE SOON. LOS ANGELES, Nov. 6.—Ottie E. McManigal, the confessed dynamiter, will be formally freed soon according to a statement made Thursday by John D. Fredericks, district attorney, who Monday last ordered the informant's release from the county jail because of the prisoner's "poor health."

McCOMBS WEDS; ENDS WHITE HOUSE ROMANCE

Takes Miss Dorothy Williams As Bride in London—Met Her at Wilson's Inauguration.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—William F. McCombs, chairman of the national democratic committee and manager of Pres. Wilson's campaign, was married here Friday to Miss Dorothy Williams of Washington, daughter of Col. John B. Williams, U. S. A., retired. The ceremony took place in the Catholic church of St. Peter and St. Edward.

Mr. McCombs has been ill for about six months and up to the eve of the wedding it was doubtful whether his health would permit the ceremony. The only church decorations were some roses upon the altar.

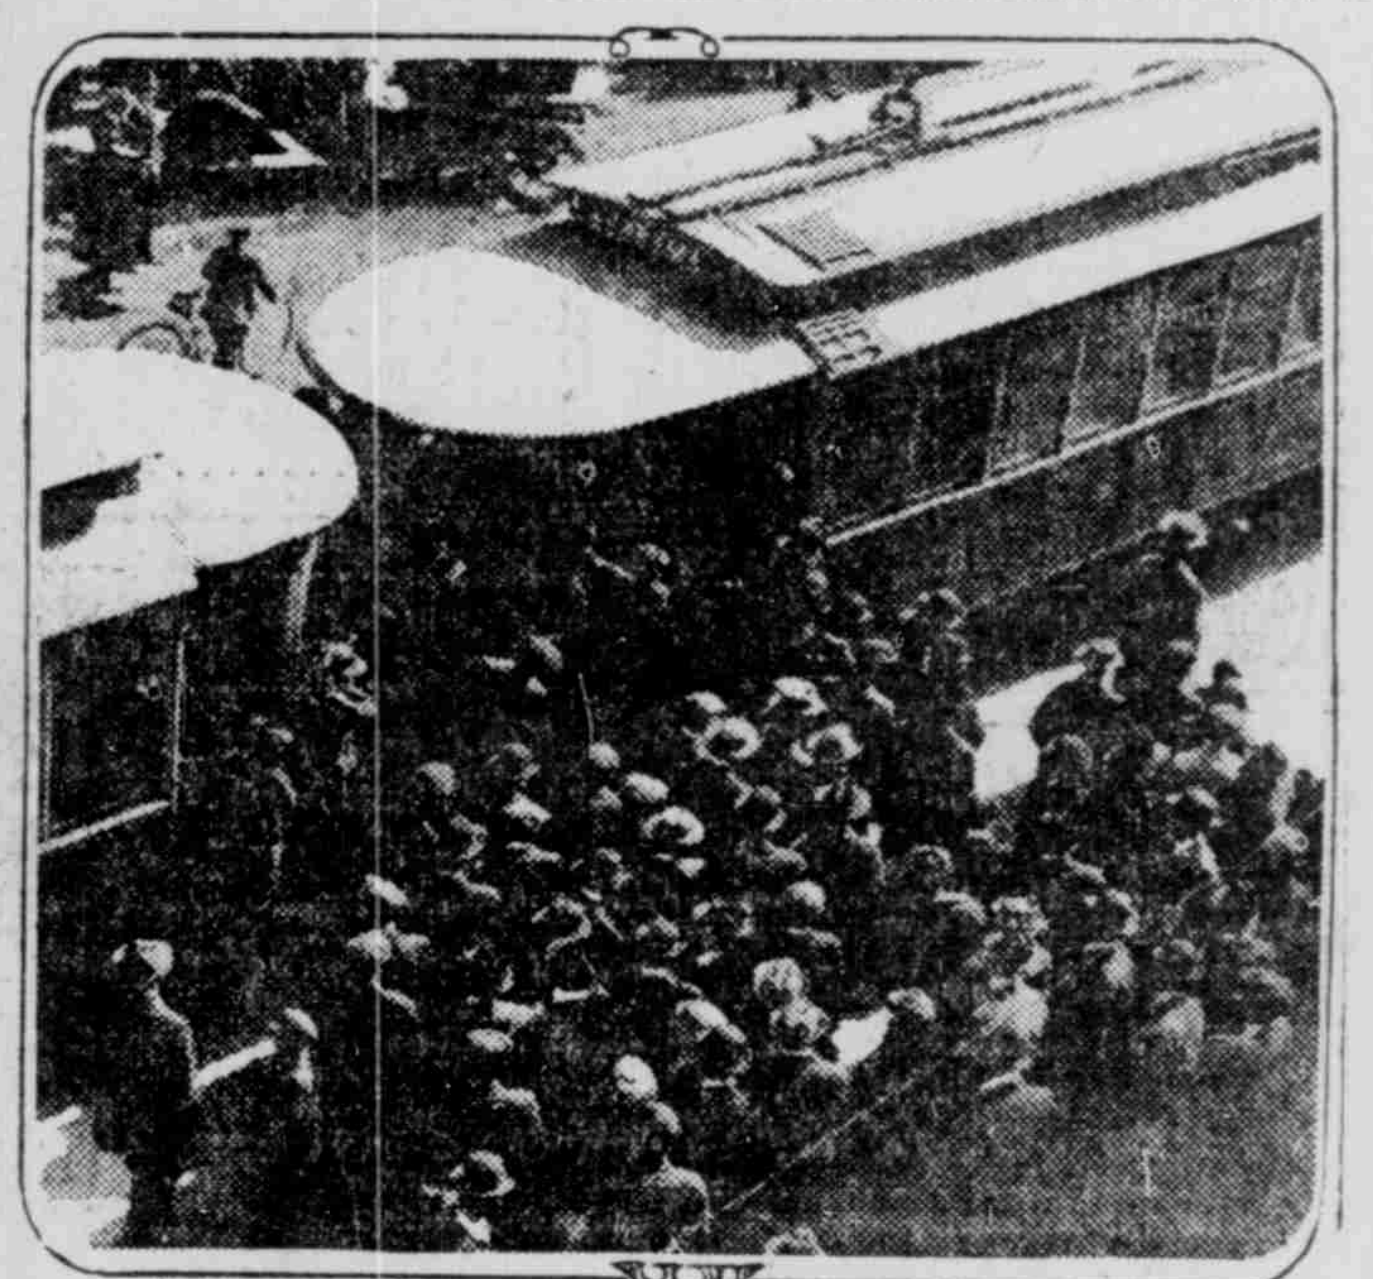

The bride wore an afternoon gown of dark velvet.

Charles F. Halsey, an old classmate of Mr. McCombs at Princeton, was best man. The wedding was followed by a reception and wedding breakfast at the Ritz hotel. Among the guests were Ambassador and Mrs. Page, the staff of the United States embassy, the Earl and Countess of Suffolk, Frederick Townsend Martin of New York, Lord Curzon, U. S. Ambassador to France Herrick, and Mrs. Jos. Leiter of Chicago.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Vaughan of London, who is well known in the United States. The marriage was the outcome of a romance which began with the inauguration of Pres. Wilson in Washington. It was there that Mr. McCombs and Miss Williams met. The engagement has existed several months, but the marriage had to be postponed because of an operation for appendicitis performed upon the bridegroom in Paris.

MADE BENEFICARIES OF $50,000 ESTATE

LAPORTE, Ind., Nov. 7.—The Virginia Military Institute, the Miami Institute of Germantown, Ohio, the American Bible society of New York, and the Episcopal churches in Laporte and Frederick, Maryland, are some of the beneficiaries of the will of Mrs. Sarah Andrew Ehafer, an author, who with three other women was killed in an automobile accident here Oct. 19. The will was filed Thursday and disposes of an estate valued at $50,000.

LITTLE REDUCTION IN CLOTHES PRICE

Tariff Will Not Affect the Ultimate Consumer Much Says Chicago Man Back From Meeting at Chicago.

"There will be very little reduction in prices of clothing under the new tariff," said C. J. Archambeau, of the Gately company, who returned from the market yesterday. "The reason for this is because the reduction in woolens is so slight that it is hardly possible for the manufacturers to reduce the price of ready made clothes. The tendency is, however, to give better grades of merchandise and better workmanship. The reductions in woolens range from five to 20 cents at an average reduction of 12 cents per yard. This will mean from 40 to 50 cents on a suit."

Mr. Archambeau has been attending the Gately clothing exhibit at Chicago for Gately managers from all over the country, and the selection of spring clothing was made. "There will be considerable changes in the styles for the coming year. The fabrics are shown in stripes and modified checks. Gray may possibly be the leading color for the spring and summer seasons. The young men will wear the new semi-Norfolk and the English models. Patch pockets will be favored considerably, especially with the young man, while the more conservative suits will be worn by more quiet dressers," said Mr. Archambeau.

PREDICT HOME RULE IN IRELAND BEFORE 1914

LONDON, Nov. 7.—The prediction that home rule will be assured before 1914 in Ireland, was made here Thursday following an announcement of the preliminary program in the session beginning Feb. 3.

The home rule bill will be the first taken up when parliament convenes and the government is positive of having it enacted by May 9.

This will be the third time it has passed the commons that being the number of times necessary to make it a law irrespective of any action by the house of lords.

TALES OF WOE BY MEN WHO "BIT" ON FAKE MATRIMONIAL BUREAU

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 7.—A tale of the successful operation throughout the central west and in a number of southern cities from 1904 to 1910 of a matrimonial bureau and fake business investment schemes which yielded her hundreds of dollars, was told in the federal court here Thursday by Mrs. Jean Alden, who is on trial under the name of "Mrs. Anna B. Taylor" for using the mails to defraud.

The woman is specifically charged with having defrauded W. F. Risdon of Tarkio, Mo.; B. F. Guy of Lanesville, Tex., and G. J. Doll of Yale, Okla.

The three men were induced, according to testimony, to invest their money in a business which Mrs. Alden was promoting.

To them the woman made promises of marriage they testified. Scores of letters that are alleged to have passed between the woman and her victims in the present case were read. Mr. Guy was the heaviest contributor, giving Mrs. Alden $1,500, according to his testimony.

Mr. Risdon declared he gave Mrs. Alden $145 for investment and Mr. Doll testified to giving her $300.

Mrs. Alden became acquainted with the men through advertisements for a business partner.

ENTIRE INDIANA GUARD CAMPS IN CAPITAL STREETS

Two Thousand Men Are Expected to Go on Duty This Morning at Indianapolis—Martial Law to be Declared.

MAY ATTEMPT TO RUN STREET CARS TODAY

Women Rush Into Governor's Office Demanding That He Force Company to Arbitrate. Says He Has No Such Power.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 7.—Indiana's entire National guard, consisting of more than 2,000 soldiers, are encamped in different parts of Indianapolis Thursday night ready for duty in the strike of the employees of the Indianapolis Traction & Terminal company. Special trains brought the troops under hurried orders and they were deftly on the outskirts of the city, virtually surrounding the town. Great secrecy was maintained as to the movement and arrival of the militia and few citizens even knew they had been called out until late Thursday.

The trains bringing the troops were stopped outside of Indianapolis by officers of the National guard and given directions.

All companies were held when they arrived until they were of such number that it was deemed safe to bring them into the city. This was done to prevent any clash with the strikers who, after learning that troops had been called out, were on the downtown streets in large numbers. The troops will not begin duty until Friday morning. In the meantime, Indianapolis more nearly resembles a huge military camp than a quiet capital city.

May Man the Cars. Whether the street cars are to be manned by soldiers, officers in charge would not say Thursday night. Martial law had not been declared early Thursday night, but such a proclamation is expected to be issued from the governor's office before morning. Late Thursday afternoon nearly 300 women, members of the Garment Workers' union, rushed across the state house lawn, into the capitol and to the governor's office, where they demanded that Gov. Harrison force arbitration in the strike and call a special session of the state legislature. Many of the women were hysterical and Mrs. Edna Davis, president of the union, declared: "We are willing to take up arms to help win this strike."

Gov. Ralston, answering the women asserted that he had no authority to force arbitration, but that he would take an oath as governor of Indiana to support the constitution and to enforce the laws. He said he was in sympathy with the union men, could not allow a condition of lawlessness to exist, and it was his sworn duty to protect lives and property.

While plans of the use of the militia have not been announced definitely, Brig. Gen. William McKee, who has been stated that he knew nothing of the street car strike officially, but had been told there was rioting in Indianapolis and that he had been ordered to end the disorder. This he said he would do.

Strikers Hold Meeting. A mass meeting of strikers and sympathizers was held on the state house lawn at noon Thursday and was addressed by labor leaders, State Sen. Hiram Harrison, Prosecutor Frank Baker and Gov. Ralston. The governor said he sympathized with the men and was sorry that it had been necessary to call out the troops. He said his duty was to enforce the law and he appealed to the laboring men to assist in restoring order in the city and prevent further bloodshed.

A suit for a receiver for the street car company, which was set for a hearing Thursday, was postponed until Friday on account of the illness of one of the attorneys for the car company.

A second suit for a receivership was filed late Thursday by Judge Frank Roby, former member of the state appellate court.

No attempt was made by the company to move cars Thursday. Although Robert L. Todd, president of the company, said he was ready to send out cars as soon as the troops were in control of the city. This was the first day, since the beginning of the strike last Friday night, that there was no rioting in the street.

Gov. Ralston announced tonight that he was withholding the proclamation of martial law in hope that the strikers and the street railway company would be able to come to terms during the night. It was learned that Judge Thomas Duncan and Charles Murphy of the Indiana Public Utilities commission had asked officials of the street car company to submit the trouble to arbitration.

The street car representatives agreed to receive a committee of its own employees and try to come to an agreement with them, providing that the charter of the local union from the Amalgamated Association of Street & Electrical Railway Employees was cancelled and that the leaders of the strike and organizers depart from the city. The company also agreed that in case it and the committee from the employees were unable to reach an agreement by Nov. 31 to leave the settlement with the Public Utilities commission and promised to abide by the decision rendered by the commission.

None of the strike leaders would express an opinion as to what the strikers would do in regard to the company's proposals.
